GOOD FAITH

We like people whom we can trust. We are more apt to do business with people whom we know are kindly and trustworthy than with strangers. Sometimes, however, we meet strangers who are very worthy and, after we know them, we trust them and get a great deal of pleasure from their association. A firm is like an individual. We go to a new shop with a good deal of misgiving. If the shop makes good we go back again and again. This is a secret of the success of the Rio Grande policy of always keeping its customers. We give you what you wish, practically in every instance on your own terms and we deal with you in a personal way that appeals to honest. thrifty people. In addition to this we carry for you only the best. The Rio Grande is setting a standard in this city.
